

SME concerns surface. KVB reported ~70% yoy decline in earnings on account of higher provisions for bad loans. Slippages were high for the third consecutive quarter at ~7% of loans with this quarter showing higher-than-expected impact from the SME portfolio. We will await a couple of more quarters to see if the SME concerns are a bit more structural or fallout of GST/demonetization. Risks on the large corporate loans are dissipating. Valuations are undemanding. Maintain ADD (TP at ₹110 from ₹120 earlier).

Weak overall performance but an expected outcome due to high provisions for bad loans

KVB's reported earnings declined by ~70% yoy, dragged by ~80% yoy increase in provisions. Revenues grew 8% yoy led by similar growth in NII and non-interest income. PPOP growth was modest at 2% yoy as operating costs grew 16% yoy. Loan growth has accelerated back to ~13% yoy from 8% yoy in the previous quarter. Most of the slowdown was seen in the corporate segment, which grew 8% yoy while retail loan growth was solid at 25% yoy. The bank has taken the benefit of investment depreciation amortization for the current quarter.

SME slippages a bit unexpected; overall concerns on NPLs gradually declining

Headline asset quality saw further deterioration with gross NPLs increasing ~80 bps qoq to 7.4% of loans and net NPLs increasing ~30 bps to 4.5% of loans – the highest levels since FY2003. Slippages were high at ~7% of loans for the third consecutive quarter. However, unlike the previous two quarters, which saw most of the NPLs coming from the corporate segment, this quarter saw a similar contribution from the SME segment as well. This was not anticipated by us and we understand that there have been some transitional issues and lagged impact of GST/demonetization. We would probably wait for another couple of quarters to see if this is becoming a structural issue as the focus is likely to shift towards recovery from these NPLs. Issues on the large corporate book are declining as the bank has been aggressively recognizing the pain. Share of loans under SDR, S4A, 5:25 is quite negligible.

Credit costs will remain elevated in the near term as KVB will need to absorb the impact of new NPL formations and incremental provisions for NCLT accounts. Provision coverage (calculated) is quite low around 38% and FY2019 would continue to see a catch-up on this front.

Maintain ADD: undemanding valuations give comfort

Our broad thesis on the bank remains unchanged and there is comfort on valuations at this point. Near-term performance is likely to be driven by (1) SME performance, (2) path of RoE improvement and (3) execution of the current team. We have cut our estimates resulting in a marginal change to our TP (₹110 from ₹120 earlier). We value the bank at 2X (adjusted) book and 14X FY2020 EPS for RoEs, which can move closer to ~14-15% in the medium term.

Retail drives loan growth in 1QFY19

Headline loan growth was 13% yoy in 1QFY19. The growth was driven by 25% yoy growth in the retail segment. Retail loan growth has been strong since 3QFY18. The share of retail loans increased 164 bps yoy and 62 bps qoq to 17.2%. Within retail growth was primarily driven by the home loans, LAP and vehicle loans. Home loans increased 23% yoy whereas growth in LAP stood at 41% yoy. Growth in vehicle loans which was robust at 9% yoy in 1QFY19 was lower than that of peers. Personal loans and education loans saw a dip by 5% yoy each in 1QFY19. SME loans witnessed modest growth at 15% yoy. Growth in agriculture and corporate segment were relatively muted at 8% yoy each in 1QFY19.

We expect modest loan growth at 13% CAGR in FY2018-21E driven by growth in retail and SME loans. KVB is aggressively pushing to convert its large retail customer base to asset customers. The company has rolled new branch/individual sales incentive scheme to improve origination. There has been further investment on the technology side to garner new customers.

Corporate and SME slippages drive deterioration in asset quality

Reported GNPL increased 18% qoq to ₹36 bn and NNPL increased 12% qoq to ₹21 bn on the back of rise in slippages. Slippages were high at ₹7.9 bn (6.8% of loans) in 1QFY19. The majority of slippages were driven by corporate and SME segments. Corporate slippages were high at ₹2.7 bn and SME slippages stood at ₹2.4bn. While the majority of slippages for the former were likely from the previously guided watch-list, we await further clarity from the management on the nature of slippages in the latter. Out of ₹12 bn (potential stress) guided by the company as its watch-list in 2QFY18, ~₹8.8 bn had slipped into NPL in 2HFY18 while ~₹3.2 bn was left to be recognized in FY2019E. Most likely majority of the slippages were from this watch-list (in the corporate segment).

FY2019E will see volatile movement in NPLs as higher slippages will be present during the initial parts of the year followed by higher recovery and write-offs as well since the company has quite a few large corporate exposures that are in various stages in the NCLT process. Loan loss provisions are likely to remain higher in FY2019 as the bank still needs to catch up on coverage ratio (excluding technical write-off) which is quite low at 41.4%. Provision coverage ratio (including technical write-off) was flat qoq at ~56.5%. We forecast GNPL ratio to be in the range of 1.5-2.5% over FY2019-21E.

Cost pressure remains high

Growth in operating expenses was high at 16% yoy in 1QFY19 driven by 18% yoy growth in employee expenses and 15% yoy growth in other expenses. Cost-to-income ratio increased 150 bps qoq and 320 bps yoy to 45% in 1QFY19. Growth in non-staff expense reflects investments in branch expansion and investments towards digital initiatives.

We expect cost-income ratio to further increase to 48% by FY2019E from 44% in FY2018 (up 370 bps qoq) and further elevate to 49% by FY2021E. Our views are guided by (1) continued investment in branch expansion (though expected to slow down going forward), (2) increase in headcount and (3) investment in digital initiatives.

Other highlights in the quarter

- ▶ Deposit growth remained muted at 5% yoy. CASA growth dropped to 8% yoy driven by flat CA yoy. SA growth maintained momentum in 1QFY19 (up 13% yoy). We forecast 14% CASA CAGR in FY2018-21E with CASA ratio at 31% by FY2021E.
- ▶ Non-interest income growth was muted at 8% yoy driven by drag in treasury gains (down 85% yoy). Core fee income growth was strong at ~12% yoy. Fee income is expected to traverse on a stiff growth trajectory as the company also plans to focus on distribution of insurance and other financial products.
- ▶ Calculated margins dropped 8 bps yoy and 42 bps qoq to 3.4% on the back of drop in yields. Calculated yields were down 6 bps qoq and 72 bps yoy as a result of rise in interest reversals and shift in loan mix towards higher share of low yielding retail loans. There was marginal relief from cost of deposits which dropped 24 bps yoy (up 5 bps qoq) to 6%. NIM is expected to witness marginal compression to 3.5% by FY2021E from 3.7% in FY2018.
- ▶ Tier-1 ratio comfortable to 13.6% with CAR of 14.1%.
